

EuroISME's prize for the best student thesis on military ethics

Regulations for the thesis prize of 2018

Aims

1. The aims of the prize are:

- i. to promote an active involvement in the study & application of military ethics, human rights and humanitarian law in a pro-active manner, thus promoting a dialogue on common European values;
- ii. to promote participation at EuroISME annual conferences by military academies and civilian universities;
- iii. to promote EuroISME as relevant player in the field of military ethics;
- iv. to publish the winning theses as a cahier (paper copy) and on line (open access) in two / three European languages.

Eligibility

2. Eligibility is limited to student's theses written in pursuit of an Academic Master Degree, and discuss the topic of one of EuroISME's annual conferences – that is to say, submissions will be considered if they discuss a topic which is: either the topic of EuroISME's next annual conference, or the topic of one of EuroISME's previous annual conferences.

3. A thesis must have received a minimum of B+ ('very good') from an academic tutor/ethics professor at a European¹ military academy or civilian university and comply with the eligibility criteria in point 2.

4. A submitted thesis must have been written either in the current academic year, or in the two previous academic years.

Nominations

¹ For the purposes eligibility in submitting a thesis for a EuroISME Prize, the term "European" will be interpreted in its widest sense.

5. Submissions will only be accepted on the basis of a nomination from a European military academy or a European civilian university.

6. Each submission must contain:

i. the name, age and nationality of the author, and, if applicable, the rank and mentioning branch of the Armed Forces concerned (Navy, Army, Air Force, Marines, Military Police, etc);

ii. contact details

- name and address of the military academy or university which formally nominates the submitted thesis
- name and contact details of the academic submitting the thesis

iii. the grade awarded to the thesis concerned by the military academy or university;

iv. a statement concerning scientific integrity, confirming that the thesis has been written by the named author (see below, article 8);

v. a statement on the year when the submission has been successfully completed and the EuroISME topic the thesis addresses.

7. All submissions must be made in accordance with EuroISME's template for submissions.

Note: the template available on EuroISME website at the prize page.

Scientific Integrity

8. The EuroISME Prize is an award for the best Academic Master's thesis on military ethics. As such it is essential that the highest academic standards of integrity are adhered to. Each submission must be accompanied with an assurance, from the military academy or university, that the thesis has been written by the named author. It is expected that each submission will have been assessed by plagiarism detection software. Each thesis short-listed by the Prize Jury will be assessed by plagiarism detection software to ensure that the integrity of the Prize is maintained. Any use of rude language, obscenities or insults within a thesis may result in a submission being rejected by the Prize Jury.

Format

9. Submissions should be offered in the following format:

i. as a PDF document;

ii. have a word count between 12,000 to 20,000 words²;

² Word count includes foot/end notes but not the bibliography.

iii. submitted in the French, German or English³ language;

iv. adhere to an academically recognised method of referencing, provided it is used consistently.

Submissions

10. Submissions should be sent to secretariat.ethicsprize@euroisme.eu All submissions will receive a confirmation of receipt from the secretariat.

Deadline

11. The deadline for submissions shall be established by the jury and announced on the website of EuroISME. The jury may, at its discretion, extend the deadline, provided it is announced on EuroISME's website.

Note: The deadline for the 2018 prize is set for November 30th, 2017.

12. Submissions received after the deadline announced by virtue of article 11 will not be considered eligible.

The Jury

13. The EuroISME Prize Jury is academically independent and will receive no instructions from external parties, such as the EuroISME Board of Directors, or national governments, on their deliberations on the theses submitted. The deliberations of the Prize Jury will be strictly confidential.

14. The Prize Jury will consist of European experts in the field of military ethics. To avoid possible conflicts of interest, no nation will be represented more than once within the Prize Jury. No member of the jury shall be a member of the Board of Directors of EuroISME.

15. The Prize Jury will adjudicate on any infractions of the regulations. Serious infractions may result in disqualification.

16. The decisions of the Prize Jury are final.

17. Military academies or universities, that submit a thesis for consideration, will receive a decision by the secretariat once the deliberations of the Prize Jury have been concluded, no later than three weeks before EuroISME's annual conference.

18. The Prize Jury will decide annually on its policies and internal rules in consultation with the EuroISME Board of Directors.

³ Military Academies or Civilian Universities submitting a thesis must ensure that a copy will be translated into English from its original language and accompanies the submission, if and when a submission reaches the second stage of the assessment process as described in article 22.

19. At the request of the Prize Jury, EuroISME's Board of Directors may appoint one or more jury members. Members of the jury are appointed for a term of three years, which may be renewed by EuroISME's Board of Directors.

21. The jury will consist of a minimum of six and a maximum of nine members.

Procedure for assessment

22 (1). The assessment of submissions shall take place in two stages – the initial stage and the final stage. In accordance with article 9, submissions for the initial stage may be made in either the French, German or English language. Two members of the jury, or appointed experts thereof, will assess the submissions and draft a short-list of those submissions which merit a consideration in the second stage by the full jury.

22 (2). In the initial assessment process, a thesis may be assessed by a jury member from the same country as the author, although an assessment by jury members from other countries is preferred. Once a shortlist of theses has been established, a jury member from the same country as the author will participate in the second stage, in the final decision making process, but will have no voting rights in the final decision of the Prize Jury.

22 (3). All assessments in the first and second stage remain strictly confidential.

22 (4). All submissions which are short-listed for the second stage will receive an honourable citation at the prize winning ceremony, which will be posted on EuroISME's website. The submissions so honoured, will be posted on EuroISME's website after the prize winner(s) has (have) been announced by the jury during the ceremony mentioned in article 26.

22 (5). All submissions which are short-listed for the second stage must be translated into English in order to be considered by the full jury. The timely translation will be the responsibility of the nominating institution. The time-frame for the translation will be communicated by the secretariat to the nominating institutions concerned.

22 (6). The full jury will decide which thesis has won the first respectively second prize.

The Secretariat

22. All correspondence to and from authors of submissions and their nominating institutions will be conducted through the secretariat. Where necessary, the Secretariat shall maintain confidentiality.

The Prize

23. There are prizes available for first and second prize.

24 (1). The author winning first prize will receive:

i. € 500

ii. travel and hotel costs to attend the EuroISME conference and prize giving to and from a European point of departure;

Note: travel and hotel reservations will be made by the Secretariat.*

iii. the opportunity to present his/her award winning thesis at an annual conference of EuroISME during the ceremony;

iv. the opportunity to publish their work with EuroISME.

24 (2) The author winning second prize will receive:

i. € 350

ii. travel and hotel costs to attend the EuroISME conference and prize giving to and from a European point of departure;

Note: travel and hotel reservations will be made by the Secretariat.

iii. the opportunity to present a paper based on their award winning thesis at a conference of EuroISME, though not necessarily during the ceremony but in one of the regular panels of EuroISME's conference;

iv. the opportunity to publish their work with EuroISME.

25. The military academy or university submitting a prize winning thesis will receive an honourable citation and plaque. The citation will appear on the EuroISME website.

26. In consultation with the Prize Jury, the Board of Directors will organise the prize ceremony at EuroISME's annual conference. It will also draft a press release.

Publicity and publications

27 (1). By submitting a thesis to EuroISME, the author consents to the fact that his/her thesis, may be published if it receives an honourable citation or becomes a winning thesis. EuroISME will subsequently hold the copyright in conjunction with the author, or, respectively, the nominating institution.

27 (2). EuroISME may enter into a contract with a publisher in order to publish and distribute a winning thesis in accordance with custom for academic works.

28. EuroISME may make photographs, audio or video recordings of the oral presentation of the thesis at the prize ceremony, and it reserves the right to publish these photographs and recordings in accordance with its statutes.

29. Once the recipients of first and second prize, or of an honourable citation, and their nominating institutions, have been informed by the secretariat of the decision of the jury pursuant to article 17, they shall not disclose this decision of the jury to third-parties, including the press or the social media. Infractions may result in disqualification. The formal announcement of prize winner(s) shall be made by the jury at the ceremony mentioned in article 26.

29. In consultation with the jury, EuroISME's Board of Directors may invite the press to attend the prize winning ceremony. The prize winners may be requested to field questions from the press.
